Vice Chancellor's Message

It is a moment of immense pride and satisfaction to witness the publication of the first Alumni Magazine of the Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur. This initiative is not only a tribute to the academic journey of the Institute but also a celebration of the shared commitment of its faculty, students, and alumni.

The Institute has grown into a vibrant academic community where knowledge, research, and professional excellence converge. I extend my heartfelt appreciation to the dedicated faculty members whose tireless efforts continue to inspire generations of students.

Our alumni are the pride of this University and the true ambassadors of the Institute. Their accomplishments in public service, academia, business, and diverse professional fields reflect the strength of their education and the values nurtured here. I believe this message will resonate with them as a token of respect, recognition, and gratitude for their lasting bond with Shah Abdul Latif University.

I particularly commend Prof. Dr. Ikhtiar Ali Ghumro, Director of the Institute of Commerce and Management, for his dynamic leadership and for making this publication a reality. His vision, devotion, and sustained efforts have remarkably uplifted the profile of the Institute and created new avenues of engagement for alumni and students alike.

This magazine will undoubtedly serve as a bridge between past and present, connecting our alumni with the University and strengthening the bonds of our academic family. May this endeavor inspire our current students to pursue excellence with the same dedication and determination that has defined our alumni.

With best wishes,

With best wishes,

Dr. Yousuf Khushk

Meritorious Professor & Vice Chancellor
Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur Mir's
Sindh, Pakistan.

Message of Dean Faculty of Management Sciences

The launch of this magazine marks an important milestone for Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur. It is not merely a publication but a platform that carries the creativity, thoughts, and achievements of our students and faculty to a wider audience. This initiative reflects the vibrant spirit of our university and provides a meaningful space for ideas, experiences, and scholarship to be shared and celebrated.

I am deeply grateful to our worthy Vice Chancellor, Meritorious Prof. Dr. Muhammad Yousuf Khushk, whose visionary leadership continues to guide us towards academic excellence and innovation. This magazine stands as a testament to his commitment to raising both intellectual standards and the overall learning environment of the university.

For students, it serves as a canvas to express their talents and perspectives; for faculty, an avenue to highlight their dedication and contributions; and for alumni, a bridge to reconnect with the institution that shaped their journey.

I also wish to acknowledge the dedication of the Director Institute of Commerce and Management and editorial team and contributors who have worked tirelessly to bring this idea to fruition. Their efforts remind us that meaningful progress is always the result of collective endeavor.

As Dean of the Faculty of Management Sciences, I see this publication as a step forward in strengthening the culture of knowledge, dialogue, and community at Institute of Commerce and Management SALU. I am confident that it will inspire, inform, and connect all those who share a bond with this university.

Prof. Dr. Minhoon Khan Laghari
Dean
Faculty of Management Sciences

Message of the Director of the Institute

It is a matter of great pride and joy for me to present the first-ever magazine of the Institute of Commerce and Management, now proudly named the Institute of Commerce and Management at Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur. This milestone reflects our academic growth, collective efforts, and the strong bond that unites our faculty, students, and alumni.

At the outset, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to our honorable Vice Chancellor, Prof. Dr. Muhammad Yousif Khushk, whose constant encouragement and visionary leadership have inspired us to move forward with renewed commitment. I am also thankful to the newly appointed Dean, Faculty of Management Sciences, for his valuable guidance and support in strengthening the academic and administrative fabric of our institute.

I sincerely appreciate the dedicated faculty members of the Institute – both senior colleagues and young scholars – who have worked tirelessly to create a student-friendly and academically vibrant environment. Their hard work in teaching, research, and guidance for students ranging from undergraduate to PhD level has truly uplifted the standards of our institute.

My special appreciation goes to our students, who have maintained a peaceful, disciplined, and friendly atmosphere on campus. Their commitment to attending classes regularly and participating positively in academic life strengthens our belief in a brighter future.

Equally important are our esteemed alumni, who are our true ambassadors in society. Your success stories, support, and goodwill spread a positive image of the Institute far and wide. We are especially thankful for the memorable photos and valuable information you have shared, which have refreshed our cherished memories and enriched this magazine.

This magazine will also feature a dedicated section highlighting the profiles of all faculty members, including those who have honorably served in the Department of Commerce and are now enjoying their well-deserved superannuation. It will also include pictorial glimpses of seminars, conferences, workshops, guest lectures, and other events organized over the years. A special pictorial section will bring together past and present student life, adding color and history to our academic journey.

As Director, I want to assure our stakeholders that we are continuously striving to provide quality education, blending the wisdom of senior PhD faculty with the energy of our young scholars. The institute has fostered a home-like environment for students, where learning flourishes and, importantly, our female students feel secure and respected, free from any form of harassment.

I am confident that this magazine will serve as a bridge between the Institute and its alumni, strengthening our connections and ultimately benefitting current and future generations of students.

With gratitude and best wishes,

Prof. Dr. Ikhtiar Ali Ghumro
Director & Professor
Institute of Commerce and Management
Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur

Faculty members section

The faculty members are the backbone of any academic institute, and in the case of the Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University Khairpur, they are the very reason behind the progress, reputation, and academic growth of the institute. Since the establishment of the Commerce Department, which has now evolved into the Institute of Commerce and Management, faculty members have played a central role in teaching, research, and mentoring. Their commitment and tireless efforts have guided generations of students, from undergraduate learners to doctoral scholars, helping them achieve their academic and professional goals. This magazine dedicates a full section to acknowledge, document, and celebrate the contributions of our respected faculty members who have given their knowledge, energy, and time to make this institute one of the leading centers of commerce and management education in Sindh. Each faculty member's profile has been carefully presented on an individual page, highlighting their academic qualifications, teaching experience, areas of research, achievements, and other professional engagements. A recent photograph of each faculty member is also included, ensuring that our readers and alumni can connect faces with names and appreciate the personalities who have shaped the history of this institute.

The purpose of this section is not only to recognize the efforts of our current faculty but also to honor those senior professors who have now retired after long years of dedicated service. Their names, legacies, and achievements continue to inspire both their colleagues and students. For the younger generation of scholars, these profiles serve as a source of motivation, reminding them of the academic traditions and values upon which this institute has been built. Our current faculty includes a balanced blend of senior PhD professors with decades of experience and dynamic young teachers who bring new ideas, research vigor, and innovative teaching methodologies. This combination creates an enriching learning environment where students are exposed to both deep-rooted academic wisdom and modern approaches to commerce and management studies.

Through these detailed profiles, readers will also find evidence of the diversity of expertise within our faculty. Some are specialists in economics, banking, finance, accounting, and management sciences, while others are contributing to cross-disciplinary research that addresses the challenges of the modern business world. Their published works, and involvement in research projects reflect the institute's growing academic footprint at both national and international levels.

By allocating one full page to each faculty member, this magazine aims to create a permanent record that future students and alumni can refer to with pride. It also serves as a token of gratitude and appreciation from the institute to its teachers, who have consistently gone beyond classroom teaching to counsel, guide, and mentor their students in life and career. The section will also strengthen the bond between alumni and faculty, as many graduates will find the familiar faces of their teachers who once shaped their academic journey. This recognition is not just documentation—it is a celebration of dedication, knowledge, and the human relationships that make the Institute of Commerce and Management a true academic home.

She has served in reputable institutions, including Shah Abdul Latif University (SALU) and the Hands Institute, where she has contributed to both academic development and student mentoring.

She holds a permanent position as Assistant Professor at the Institute of Commerce, SALU, Khairpur. With a strong foundation in business management, her teaching philosophy emphasizes student engagement, research orientation, and industry relevance.

Dr. Kanwal has an active research portfolio with 13 publications recognized by the Higher Education Commission (HEC) of Pakistan. Her scholarly contributions reflect her commitment to advancing knowledge in business management and related fields. She continues to inspire students through her teaching, research, and mentorship, while also aspiring to grow further as an Associate Professor to contribute more significantly to academic excellence and research innovation.

Dr Qamar Abbas Mangi

Dr. Qamar Abbas is a dedicated teacher, researcher, and academic leader, currently serving as an Assistant Professor at the Institute of Commerce and Management. He has earned his PhD in Commerce (Human Resource Management) from the Institute of Commerce and Management, establishing himself as a competent scholar with a strong record of research publications in reputed national and international journals, along with securing two HEC-funded research projects.

As a teacher, Dr. Abbas is known for his engaging teaching style and commitment to academic excellence. He has taught a wide range of courses, including Organizational Behavior and Accounting, where he effectively combines theory with practical applications to enhance student learning. His approachable mentoring style has enabled many M.Phil and PhD scholars to successfully complete their research under his supervision.

As a researcher, he focuses on advancing knowledge in HRM and commerce through rigorous inquiry and innovative approaches. His contributions reflect both depth and relevance, addressing contemporary challenges in business and management. His ability to secure competitive research funding further demonstrates his academic competence and impact.

Previously, Dr. Abbas served as Head of the Department of Business Administration and Commerce at the University of Sufism and Modern Sciences, Bhitshah, where he provided strong academic leadership, strengthened departmental programs, and promoted a research-oriented environment. Recognized for his professionalism, teaching excellence, and research achievements, Dr. Abbas continues to play a vital role in nurturing future leaders, fostering innovation, and contributing meaningfully to the academic community and society at large.

Dr. Ghulam Akbar Khaskheli

Dr. Ghulam Akbar Khaskheli is currently serving at Shah Abdul Latif University (SALU), Khairpur. He previously worked as an Associate Professor of Marketing at ILMA University, Karachi, and also held an IPFP fellowship at SALU. His professional journey reflects a rich blend of experiences across banks, NGOs, and educational institutions, highlighting his adaptability, leadership, and contributions in diverse domains. Dr. Khaskheli holds a Ph.D. in Marketing from Shah Abdul Latif University, which he impressively completed within three years—an achievement that earned him a Certificate of Honor as the youngest Ph.D. graduate of the university. He also holds an MS in Commerce and a BS in Commerce, which provided him with a strong academic foundation in business and commerce studies.

His research focuses on contemporary themes including social media advertising, consumer behavior, entrepreneurial marketing, and total quality management, with extensions into SME growth, innovation, and sustainable development. Equipped with advanced methodological expertise, he employs tools such as SPSS, AMOS, E-Views, and SmartPLS to conduct rigorous quantitative analyses. His scholarly contributions have earned him recognition at the national level, with the AD Scientific Index (November 2024) ranking him among the top researchers in Pakistan in the fields of business and marketing, particularly with respect to H-index, i10-index, and citation counts.

Dr. Khaskheli stands out for his dynamic integration of academic rigor, innovative research, and practical engagement across multiple sectors. His distinction of completing a Ph.D. in record time, combined with his impactful scholarship and cross-sector professional roles, positions him as both an inspiring educator and a forward-looking researcher. His work addresses critical challenges in contemporary marketing while shaping the future direction of commerce education and research in Pakistan.

Senior Faculty members section

Every academic institution carries within its history the invaluable contributions of those who laid its foundations, nurtured its growth, and devoted their lives to teaching, research, and mentorship. The Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University Khairpur, formerly known as the Department of Commerce, stands today as a vibrant academic unit because of the vision, dedication, and sacrifices of its retired faculty members. This section of our magazine is a humble tribute to those honorable teachers who are now enjoying their well-deserved retirement after years of service, but whose names remain deeply etched in the legacy of this institute.

Retired faculty members represent the roots of our academic journey. They were the pioneers who built the department step by step, often in challenging circumstances, with limited resources but unlimited commitment. Their relentless efforts brought commerce and management education to a region where opportunities were scarce, thereby opening new avenues for thousands of students over decades. By dedicating one full page to each retired teacher's profile, achievements, and photograph, this magazine not only documents their services but also offers future generations an opportunity to know and respect the individuals who made this institute what it is today.

The profiles included in this section highlight the academic careers of our retired professors and lecturers, their research contributions, publications, conferences, and administrative roles. Many of them served not only as teachers but also as mentors, heads of department, deans, and members of university bodies. They guided students through the complexities of economics, finance, banking, accounting, and management, but more importantly, they shaped character, instilled discipline, and inspired values of hard work and integrity. Their classrooms produced graduates who are now serving in various sectors across Pakistan and abroad, carrying forward the knowledge and training imparted by their teachers.

Acknowledging retired faculty members is not merely a formal gesture; it is an expression of gratitude and respect. For current and future students, these profiles stand as a testament that teaching is not just a profession but a lifelong mission. The lessons, dedication, and sacrifices of these teachers remind us that an institution's real wealth is not its buildings or facilities but its people—the educators who pour their wisdom and energy into shaping young minds.

This section is also a message to our alumni. As they go through these pages, many will recognize the faces and names of their mentors who once guided them through their academic journey. It will revive cherished memories of classrooms, discussions, examinations, and moments of encouragement that have shaped their lives. For alumni, this recognition is also a reminder of the debt of gratitude owed to their teachers, who prepared them for the challenges of professional life.

The Institute of Commerce and Management considers its retired faculty members as living assets whose contributions continue to inspire. Their photographs and achievements presented here are not just part of history but serve as guiding lights for the present and future of the institute. By preserving their legacy in these pages, we reaffirm our commitment to honoring those who made knowledge their lifelong gift to society.

Alumni section

No institute can truly measure its success without looking at the strength, achievements, and goodwill of its alumni. The Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University Khairpur, formerly the Department of Commerce, takes immense pride in its graduates who have spread across Pakistan and abroad, serving in diverse professions and becoming true ambassadors of their alma mater. Our alumni are the living evidence of the institute's academic strength, the dedication of its faculty, and the nurturing environment that has prepared them for the challenges of life. This section of the magazine is dedicated to honoring and celebrating our alumni—those who once walked through the classrooms of the Commerce Department and who today represent us in the world with their knowledge, skills, and professional excellence.

The alumni of this institute have excelled in multiple fields—banking, finance, academia, commerce, business, civil services, corporate sectors, and entrepreneurship. Many have pursued higher education and research, becoming scholars and educators themselves, while others have contributed significantly to the development of industries and institutions. They have not only achieved professional success but have also carried forward the values of discipline, honesty, and hard work instilled during their years at the institute. Their achievements speak volumes about the dedication of their teachers and the academic environment in which they were nurtured.

For current students, these profiles serve as a source of motivation and guidance. By reading the stories of alumni, students can envision the possible paths awaiting them after graduation. They can learn how challenges can be turned into opportunities and how the foundation laid at the Institute of Commerce and Management can open doors across the world. For faculty members, this section is a reminder of the lasting impact of their efforts and a matter of pride to see their students flourish.

This section is also an expression of gratitude to our alumni who have always supported the institute, whether through sharing memories, contributing photographs, guiding current students, or spreading positive word of mouth about their alma mater. Their affection and loyalty to the institute strengthen the bond between past and present generations.

By preserving the stories, photographs, and achievements of our alumni in this magazine, we are not only documenting history but also building bridges between the institute and its extended family across the globe. The alumni remain our true pride, our lasting legacy, and our ambassadors in society, and it is our honor to dedicate these pages to them.

Kashif Noonari

From SALU to NBP: A Journey of Learning and Service

For Mr. Kashif Raheem Noonari, Shah Abdul Latif University (SALU) was not only a place of study, it was the first step into real life. After earning his B.Com in 2005, he often says SALU became his first university in more ways than one. It was the first time he left home, faced challenges, and learned how to stand on his own. Those days taught him resilience, flexibility, and the ability to adjust when life demanded it. To this day, he proudly calls himself a Saluian.

After SALU, he went on to further studies with remarkable success. He completed an MBA in Marketing from GIFT University on a fully funded scholarship and later earned an MS in Management Science (HR) from Mohammad Ali Jinnah University. He also became a Junior Associate of the Institute of Bankers Pakistan (JAIBP), focusing on Retail Banking. These milestones shaped the base of a career built on knowledge and service.

His journey at the National Bank of Pakistan (NBP) spans more than 15 years. During this time, he served in different roles across Sindh and Balochistan. From branch operations and customer service to regional positions in compliance, audit, and administration, he faced varied situations that strengthened his ability to serve under pressure while keeping professional values intact.

In 2018, he joined NBP Staff College Karachi as Member Directing Staff. Later, he took on additional roles as Manager Learning and Manager Administration. Today, he leads training and development as well as administration for staff across both Sindh and Balochistan. Over the years, he has conducted more than 1,000 training sessions, helping bankers grow in operations, compliance, service, Banking on Equality, and leadership.

Along the way, he earned recognition as a certified professional trainer from IAPPD Global, UK, Prompt Engineering from Google and added international and local certifications in coaching, anger management, artificial intelligence, and data analytics. He believes the future belongs to those who combine solid respective industry knowledge with digital fluency alongside agility to pace with time.

“Stay curious and stay adaptable,” he tells current students. “What I learned at SALU prepared me for the unknown. If you carry that same spirit of learning, you will always find your way.”

Muhammad Hanif Pirzada

I am truly honored to share my profile for inclusion in the first annual magazine of the Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur. My educational journey began in my hometown of Hingorja, District Khairpur Mirs, where I completed my Matriculation and Intermediate education with First Division from Government Higher Secondary School, Hingorja. I then pursued a Bachelor of Commerce (B.Com) degree from Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur, where I had the privilege of learning from humble, dedicated, and inspiring teachers who always encouraged students to strive for excellence. Following my graduation, I obtained an LLB degree from the International Islamic University, Islamabad, and considering the requirements of my professional role, I also completed a Master's degree in Sociology from Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur.

Immediately after earning my LLB in 2007, I appeared in a competitive examination for a single Sindh (Rural) seat and was selected as Assistant Director in the National Highway Authority (NHA). I am currently serving as Deputy Director at NHA Headquarters, Islamabad. Throughout my tenure at NHA, I have diligently performed my duties across various domains such as Land Management, Services, Administration, and Resettlement, contributing to both Government of Pakistan-funded projects as well as projects funded by international financial institutions like the Asian Development Bank (ADB) and the World Bank.

A summary of my academic qualifications is as follows: I completed my B.Com in 2003, my LLB in 2007, and my M.A. in Sociology in 2016. Currently, I hold the position of Deputy Director at the National Highway Authority (NHA), Headquarters, Islamabad. It gives me immense pride to contribute to this initiative that highlights the achievements of SALU alumni, and I sincerely appreciate the efforts made to connect and celebrate our university community through this publication.

Amjad Aijaz

In-Charge of One Window Initiatives at Dow University of Health Sciences (DUHS), Karachi.

Waheed Ali Jiskani

I, Waheed Ali Jiskani, belong to a small village named Dubi in Tehsil Thari Mirwah, where my educational journey began at the government primary school of my native village. After laying the foundation of learning there, I completed my matriculation from the historic Govt. Naz Pilot High School Khairpur and pursued my intermediate studies at Government Superior Science College Khairpur Mirs. In 2009, I enrolled in the Department of Commerce at Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur, for a B.Com degree. My passion for academic excellence then led me to the University of Sindh, Jamshoro, where I earned a Master's in Commerce (M.Com). Later, I returned to my parent institution, Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur, for advanced research and successfully obtained my M.Phil degree in Commerce in 2022.

My professional career commenced as an OG-3 in Allied Bank Limited, where I gained practical insights and experience in the banking sector. Afterwards, I joined the School Education and Literacy Department as a Junior Elementary School Teacher (JEST), where I served with dedication for nearly five years. Alongside, I appeared in the Provincial Civil Service (PCS) examinations and had the honor of qualifying twice, in CCE-19 and CCE-20. This success earned me an allocation as an Assistant Superintendent of Prisons (ASP) in the Sindh Prison Police. At present, I am serving at Central Prison Sukkur, where I continue my commitment to public service with utmost integrity and dedication.

Faheem Ahmed Memon is a highly dedicated and accomplished professional whose journey reflects hard work, commitment, and a continuous drive for excellence in both academics and professional life.

He began his academic career with outstanding performance in his Secondary School Certificate (SSC) from Sheeren Public High School, Khairpur Mirs, where he secured 80% marks with Grade A-One. He maintained his academic consistency by earning his Higher Secondary School Certificate (HSSC) from Government Degree College, Khairpur Mirs. His dedication and determination for higher education led him to pursue a BS in Commerce (Finance) from Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur Mirs, where he graduated with 81.20% marks, Grade A, and secured overall 2nd position in his class.

Continuing his educational pursuits, Mr. Memon completed his MS in Management from Sukkur IBA University in 2017, further strengthening his expertise in the field of management sciences. Alongside, he enriched his professional qualifications by earning a Certificate of Teaching (C.T.) from Govt. Elementary College (Men), Khairpur Mirs, and a Certificate of Information Technology (CIT) from Adnan Instrument & Maintenance Service Center (AIMS), Khairpur Mirs.

Mr. Faheem Ahmed Memon's professional career is equally inspiring. He began as an Internee at Muslim Commercial Bank (MCB), Khairpur Mirs in 2011, which gave him practical exposure to financial systems. He later served as a Monitoring Officer in the Standardized Achievement Test (SAT) Project at Sukkur IBA, contributing to the development of educational assessment practices.

In 2016, he joined SZABIST ZABTech (TVE) Khairpur Mirs as an Admin Cum Accounts Officer, where he worked with excellence for more than five years. His hard work and professional skills earned him further responsibilities as an Accounts Officer, where he successfully managed financial and administrative operations.

Since June 2023, Mr. Memon has been serving as an Office Superintendent at the Sindhu Institute of Nursing & Allied Health Sciences, Khairpur Mirs, affiliated with SMBB Medical University Larkana, where he continues to demonstrate leadership, commitment, and administrative excellence.

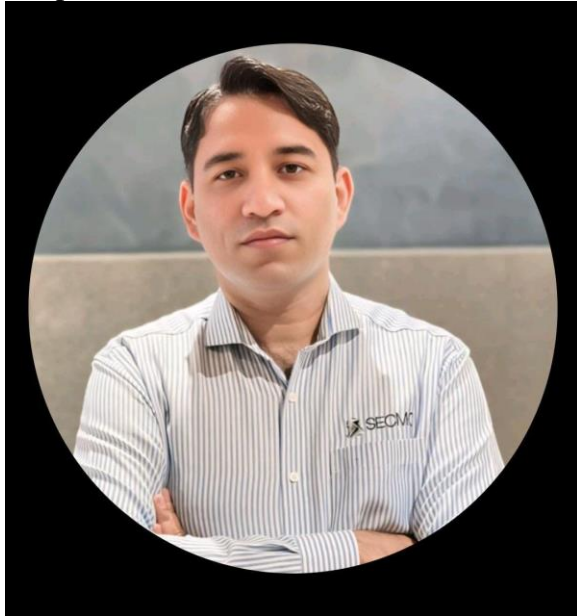

His journey from a student in Khairpur Mirs to becoming an accomplished education and management professional is a testimony to his perseverance, determination, and continuous learning. His career reflects a balance of academic achievements and professional dedication, making him a role model for students and young professionals aspiring to achieve success through education, discipline, and hard work.

Sabir Hussain Lark

My name is Sabir Hussain Lark, and I belong to a small village, Panjodero, in District Larkana. I come from a middle-class family, and my father, who was a teacher, played a key role in developing my interest in education and learning.

I completed my early education at the village school and later pursued my B.Com from Commerce College Larkana. For higher education, I chose Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur, where I was part of the BS Commerce batch of 2017–18. The two years I spent at the university were the most transformative and enriching years of my life. The knowledge and learning I gained there became a strong foundation for both my personal and professional growth. I remain deeply grateful to all my respected professors, including Sir Saifullah Shaikh, Sir Mumtaz Junejo, Sir Akhtiar Ghumro, Sir Qamar Abbas, Sir Anil Kumar, Sir Ali Hassan, and many others. I am equally thankful to my classmates for their constant support and to the university administration for providing excellent facilities.

After completing my degree, I began my professional journey in the banking sector, where I worked for four years. Later, I successfully passed the teaching test and am now about to join the Education Department, which is closely aligned with my true passion, education.

Throughout this journey, the support of my teachers, family, and friends has been invaluable. Their encouragement and guidance have brought me to where I stand today. My lifelong goal has been to work for education, to share knowledge with others, and to play a positive role in society.

My message to students and readers is this: always strive to acquire knowledge, believe in your abilities, never lose hope, and never give up. Every challenge in life is an opportunity to learn and grow.

Finally, I would also like to thank the magazine team for giving me this opportunity to share my journey and message with you all.

Muhammad Chakar Banbhan

It is indeed an honor for me to share my academic and professional journey as an alumni of the Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur. I belong to Village Tarko Wado, Taluka Thari Mirwah, District Khairpur Mir's, Sindh, and my story is a reflection of how dedication, perseverance, and the guidance of great teachers can shape a life.

I began my academic career at Shah Abdul Latif University, where I completed my BS in Commerce in 2016. My passion for higher education motivated me to pursue an MS in Commerce & Management, which I successfully completed in 2021. Today, I am continuing my academic journey as a PhD scholar in Commerce & Management, focusing my research on the mediating role of artificial intelligence in programmatic advertising and consumer purchase intention, a field that I believe will define the future of business and marketing.

At present, I am serving as a Junior Elementary School Teacher (JEST) – BPS-14 since 2018 at Government Boys High School, Tarko Wado. This role is close to my heart, as it allows me to contribute to the grooming and education of young minds in my own community. Alongside this responsibility, I remain dedicated to research and academic development. Recently, I achieved another milestone by qualifying the written examination for the post of Lecturer in Management Sciences at Begum Nusrat Bhutto Women University, Sukkur. This step brings me closer to my dream of contributing to higher education and research at the university level.

However, whatever I have achieved today is not mine alone. I owe the deepest gratitude to my teachers and mentors at Shah Abdul Latif University, who provided me with not just academic knowledge but also inspiration, encouragement, and moral strength. Their guidance illuminated my path and instilled in me the values of hard work, humility, and continuous learning. Truly, without their support, I would not be at this place today.

To the current students of Shah Abdul Latif University, I would like to say that never underestimate the power of persistence and learning. Challenges will come, but they are stepping stones to success. Value your teachers, respect their efforts, and invest your time wisely in building knowledge and character. Education is not only a means to secure a career but also a way to serve society with dignity and purpose.

As I look back, I feel proud to be a part of the SALU family. My journey is still ongoing, but the foundation laid at this great institution continues to guide my steps forward. May our Institute of Commerce and Management continue to shine, producing more students who become scholars, leaders, and contributors to our nation's progress.

Ghulam Hussain

After completing my graduation, I began my professional journey in early 2013 by working with an NGO on a salary of Rs. 4,000. In 2014, I joined a private school with an increased salary of Rs. 8,000. My actual professional career started when I joined Allied Bank as a cashier on a salary of Rs. 21,000, during which I also completed my Master's degree. In 2018, I switched to Bank Islami Pakistan Ltd as a CD Incharge and was later elevated to AVP Operation Manager in 2020. After that, I left the banking sector to pursue my own business; however, due to the devastating floods of 2022, I lost everything. In August 2022, I rejoined the banking sector with U Microfinance Bank as Operation Manager, and later moved to MCB as AVP Operation Manager, where I am currently working with a handsome package and facilities, Alhamdulillah.

I am truly grateful for whatever I have and always thank Almighty Allah in every situation. I firmly believe that ups and downs are part of life, and one should not desire what cannot be earned but rather remain happy with what one has while continuing to strive for the best. All credit for my success goes to my teachers, who taught me with professionalism and provided me with the opportunity to play my role in society as a good citizen.

Arif Zia Memon

Arif Zia Memon hails from Khairpur Mirs, a historic city of Sindh renowned for its cultural and educational heritage. He began his academic journey at Government Saint Theresa's High School, Khairpur, where he completed his matriculation in 2005. He then pursued his intermediate education in Pre-Medical (PM) from Government Superior Science College, Khairpur, graduating in 2007. Following this, he enrolled in Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur, where he completed his Bachelor of Commerce (B.Com) degree from 2008 to 2010. His keen interest in academics and research led him to continue his higher studies at the same university, where he earned a Master of Arts (M.A.) degree (2011–2013) and later an M.Phil in Pakistan Studies. With a strong passion for contributing to scholarship in his field, he is currently pursuing his PhD in Pakistan Studies at the Islamia University of Bahawalpur (IUB).

Alongside his academic journey, Arif Zia Memon also gained diverse professional experience. He began his career in the banking sector, serving in Khushhali Bank as a Client Service Officer (CSO) and Cash Officer (CO) for eight months during 2010–2011, immediately after his B.Com degree. His passion for teaching, however, drew him into academia, and he joined Pak Turk International Schools and Colleges, Khairpur Branch, as a Pakistan Studies teacher, where he served from August 2013 to March 2018. His dedication and excellence in teaching eventually earned him an appointment as Lecturer at the Benazir Bhutto Shaheed University of Technology and Skills Development (BBS-UTECH), Khairpur, in March 2018, where he continues to serve.

Throughout his academic and professional career, Arif Zia Memon has shown a deep commitment to learning, teaching, and research. His journey reflects both perseverance and dedication to contributing to the academic development of students and advancing knowledge in the field of Pakistan Studies.

Shamim Mallah

Shamim Mallah completed her graduation in the session 2003–2004 from the Institute of Commerce at Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur. She began her professional career in 2006 in the banking sector as a Microfinance Trainee Officer at HBL Microfinance Bank. Within just a year, owing to her strong academic background and qualifications, she was promoted to Branch Manager. In 2013, she became the first female Area Manager in the Microfinance Bank sector, a milestone that reflects both her professional competence and resilience. Currently, she is serving as the Regional Business Head of Sindh at APNA Microfinance Bank.

Her journey from the lecture halls of Shah Abdul Latif University to leadership roles in the banking industry is a story of growth, resilience, and determination. The education she received at this prestigious institute laid the foundation of critical thinking, discipline, and ambition, which became the driving forces of her career. Over the past 18 years, she has gained vast professional experience, rising through the ranks to hold key leadership positions, focusing on building high-performing teams, ensuring compliance, driving portfolio growth, and contributing to financial inclusion.

Shamim Mallah acknowledges that every success she has achieved is a reflection of the knowledge, mentorship, and moral grounding she received at Shah Abdul Latif University. She takes immense pride in representing her alma mater in the banking sector and hopes that her journey will inspire current students to dream big, overcome challenges, and remain connected to the institute that continues to shape futures and produce leaders.

Over the past two decades, she has demonstrated exceptional leadership in academic administration, curriculum development, and student mentorship, contributing significantly to the growth and reputation of the department. Her commitment to fostering quality education and empowering women in commerce education has been a hallmark of her professional journey.

Nusrat Ghumro

Nusrat Ghumro (M.Com, 2004) secured 3rd position in her Master of Commerce program at Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur. She is currently serving as a Lecturer in Commerce at Government Boys and Girls Degree College, Razaqabad, Karachi, where she is dedicated to imparting quality education and guiding students toward academic and professional growth.

Gulshan Ara Ghumro

Gulshan Ara Ghumro, a proud alumna of the Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University Khairpur, completed her M.Com in 2008 and has since built a distinguished academic career that serves as an inspiration for our upcoming students.

She began her journey as a Lecturer at Government Girls' Degree College, Ranipur (November 2011 – March 2015), followed by her service at Government College for Women, Khairpur (March 2015 – January 2018).

Since January 2018, Gulshan Ara Ghumro has been serving as an Assistant Professor at Government Girls' Degree College, Padidan, where she continues to inspire young women through her dedication to teaching and academic excellence.

Most recently, she has been pursuing her MPhil at the Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University Khairpur, further strengthening her commitment to higher learning and academic growth.

Nadia Javed Ahmed

Nadia Javed Ahmed is serving as an Assistant Audit Officer (Grade-17) at the Director General Audit Sindh, Karachi. She completed her B.Com degree from Shah Abdul Latif University (SALU) during the session 2001–2002.

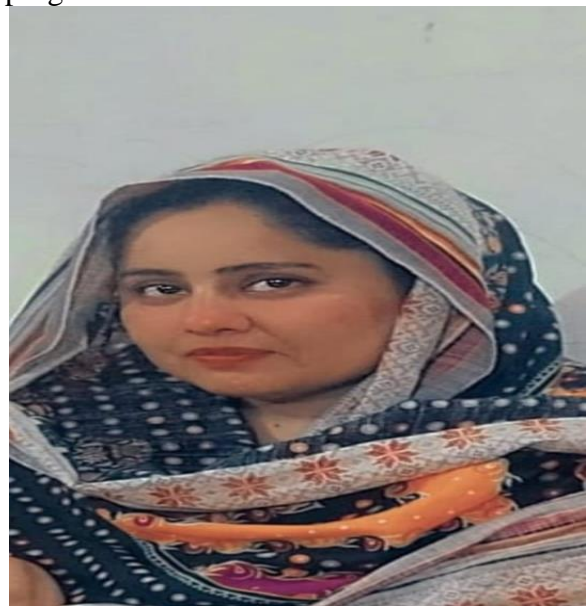

Sanam Parveen Junejo

I am Sanam Parveen Junejo, a proud alumnus of Shah Abdul Latif University, where I earned my M.Com degree with a silver medal in 2000. I began my career as an accountant at Strathmore School and later fulfilled my dream of becoming a lecturer in commerce at SZABIST. After six years at SZABIST, in 2010, I joined Government Arts and Commerce College Larkana as a lecturer and have since progressed to the position of Assistant Professor of Commerce.

Bushra Memon

Bushra Memon completed her BS (Commerce) degree from Shah Abdul Latif University (SALU) in 2010, where she was awarded both gold and silver medals at the convocation in recognition of her outstanding academic performance. She further pursued her MBA at Sukkur IBA University, earning a gold medal in 2013. Currently, she is serving as a lecturer in the College Education Department, Government of Sindh, and is also enrolled in the Ph.D. program in Commerce at SALU.

Deepa Kumari

My name is Deepa Kumari, an alumna of the Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur. I completed my B.Com in 2008, followed by an M.A. in Economics in 2010 and an M.A. in Sociology in 2012. Currently, I am pursuing my M.Phil in Economics at SALU. Over the years, I have worked with several renowned organizations in diverse capacities, focusing on women's empowerment, livelihood promotion, health, and community development. My professional journey includes valuable roles with PAHEL Pakistan, VTT Global, Shifa Foundation, MRDO, IRC, and FINCA Microfinance Bank. Presently, I am working on establishing my own organization with the vision to support marginalized communities, empower women, and create sustainable opportunities for the poor. Alongside this, I continue to serve as a social activist, contributing to society through awareness programs and community mobilization.

I am honored to be a member of the Sindh Government Human Rights Committee (Khairpur), the District Learning Forum, and the District Voter Education Committee. In addition, I serve as a comparer and drama artist at Radio Pakistan Khairpur, while also managing my own online business. As a single parent, I strive to set an example for women that life does not stop with challenges; with courage, hard work, and faith, we can move forward and live with dignity. Soon, I will be traveling to Sri Lanka to participate in an International Training Program, proudly representing Pakistan on an international platform — a moment of great honor for me and my alma mater. My message to the youth is simple: if a single parent like me can overcome struggles and achieve her goals, then surely the young generation can also rise, believe in themselves, and accomplish even greater things.

Nudrat Ameer – Silver Medalist, M.Com (2004–2006), Assistant Professor

Looking back, the years 2004 to 2006 hold a very special place in my life. I took admission in the M.Com program at Shah Abdul Latif University, and those two years turned out to be a beautiful journey of learning, growth, and unforgettable memories. By the grace of Allah, I secured first position from the previous side and was honored with a Silver Medal, which remains one of the proudest achievements of my academic career. I was blessed with some of the most remarkable teachers who not only taught us with dedication but also inspired us beyond the classroom. I would especially like to acknowledge Sir Ikhtiyar, Sir Ali Hasan, Sir Riaz Mangi, Sir Mumtaz Junejo, Sir Ameer Shar, Sir Asif, and last but not least Sir Zeeshan Shah. Their guidance, encouragement, and support played a vital role in shaping my academic path and professional values, and I consider myself extremely lucky to have had such mentors. The environment at the university was supportive and vibrant, with wonderful classmates who helped create a bond that made academic life both enjoyable and meaningful. The spirit of cooperation from both teachers and fellow students made the experience all the more enriching.

Today, I am proud to serve as an Assistant Professor, and I know that this would not have been possible without the strong foundation laid during my time in the M.Com program. The knowledge, discipline, and confidence I gained during those two years have stayed with me throughout my journey. To current students, I would like to say: value your time, respect your teachers, and stay committed to your goals, because your present efforts are shaping your future success.

Neha Bhatti (B.Com Hons, 2016–2020)

My four years at the Commerce Department, Shah Abdul Latif University, were truly a turning point in my life. The program was not only about learning accounting, finance, and management, but also about developing essential skills such as communication, teamwork, and problem-solving. I still remember how group projects, presentations, and meaningful interactions with faculty members helped me gain confidence, which later proved invaluable in my career. Like many students, I also faced uncertainties about career choices after graduation. My first professional experiences were in social media marketing, where I had to quickly adapt to the fast-changing digital landscape and prove myself in competitive environments. Those early challenges taught me persistence and the importance of continuous learning, and step by step, I built my skills in marketing, client engagement, and partnership development. Today, I am proud to be working as a Partnership Executive with LMG London (UK), where I manage collaborations and professional relationships across diverse sectors. This achievement is a result of both hard work and the strong foundation laid by my Commerce studies at SALU. Over the course of my career, I have transitioned from early roles in social media marketing to an international role in partnership management, gained experience in building professional networks and managing cross-border collaborations, and demonstrated adaptability by moving into new sectors while continuously upskilling myself. To my juniors at the Commerce Department, I want to emphasize that success is never immediate—it is built step by step. The skills and values you are learning here may seem ordinary today, but they will shape your confidence and career tomorrow. Stay consistent, embrace challenges, and always believe that your degree from SALU can take you to places you may not have imagined.

Passing year 2020

Currently Job - Sales Manager (US based company)

I graduated from the Commerce Department of Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur in 2020 with a major in Finance and began my career in Karachi as a Customer Support Executive at Ibex. Over the past four years, I have progressed through roles in sales, quality assurance, and data analysis, and today I serve as Sales Manager at Beyond LED Technology. I lead four international teams across Pakistan, India, China, and the USA, driving B2B sales in LED lighting, solar energy, and bulk buying. As the youngest and first female Sales Manager in my company, I strive to inspire more women to pursue leadership roles in sales.

Prih Talreja is an accomplished alumna of the Department of Commerce, having completed her M.Phil in Commerce in 2025. Muhammad Suleman Shaikh

Muhammad Suleman Shaikh, Vice President at the National Bank of Pakistan, belongs to the MBA (Finance) batch of 2005 from Shah Abdul Latif University. Reflecting on his journey, he recalls walking out of the university with both excitement and uncertainty about the road ahead, wondering where his first professional steps would take him. Within two months of completing his degree, he began his career as an Accounts Officer in a leading NGO in Khairpur, where he quickly realized that the theories learned in classrooms take on entirely new dimensions in the real world. The transition came with challenges—adjusting to professional expectations, learning on the go, and facing setbacks—but each step became a building block in his career. With persistence, guidance from mentors, and a continuous effort to explore better opportunities, he advanced to more responsible roles. Not restricting himself to one job, he kept striving for growth, and by mid-2007, after working in another leading organization for 18 months, he made the pivotal move to join the largest bank in the country.

From 2007 to 2017, he further pursued higher education, completing his MS degree from one of the top universities, while also earning professional banking diplomas on time, which played a key role in his career advancement. Today, he serves as Vice President in the Compliance Group of the National Bank of Pakistan, where he works closely with senior management on major responsibilities. Looking back, he describes his journey from university to this position as one shaped not by a straight path, but by resilience, continuous learning, and openness to opportunities.

His message to students is to embrace uncertainty, keep learning beyond textbooks, and trust that every experience—even the difficult ones—shapes the professional you are becoming. He firmly believes that nothing comes easy and nothing is free; to achieve success, one must always be willing to pay the price in one form or another.

Sadia Komal

Ms. Sadia Komal belongs to the Mangi caste and successfully completed her Master of Commerce (M.Com) degree in the year 2016. Prior to her postgraduate studies, she pursued her academic journey through Bachelor of Commerce (B.Com) and B.Com (Hons), which provided her with a strong foundation in commerce and business education. With the completion of her M.Com degree, she enhanced her expertise in advanced accounting, finance, and management, preparing herself for professional excellence as well as future research opportunities at the MS, M.Phil, or Ph.D. level. Sadia Komal's educational background reflects her dedication to academic growth and her commitment to contributing to the field of commerce and management.

Celebrating Learning, Friendship, and Growth

Moments that Define Us

From Classrooms to Celebrations, a Legacy in Pictures

Our Story in Frames

Capturing Knowledge, Joy, and Togetherness

A Journey Beyond Classrooms

Inspiring Minds, Building Bonds, Creating Memories

Treasures of Time

Photographs that Celebrate Excellence and Community

Every institute has its own story, and much of that story is told not only through words but through moments captured in photographs—moments of learning, joy, achievement, and togetherness that reflect the soul of the institution and its people. The Institute of Commerce and Management, Shah Abdul Latif University Khairpur, has always believed that education extends beyond classrooms into activities, seminars, workshops, sports, and social initiatives that enrich the lives of students and faculty alike, and the pictorial section of this first-ever magazine has been designed to bring those memories alive once again. Beginning with the most recent and moving to earlier years, the photographs narrate the vibrancy of our academic and extracurricular culture: online lectures delivered by foreign speakers who shared global perspectives in commerce, economics, finance, and management; seminars and sessions by local experts that connected theory with real-world practice; and interactive workshops on skill development, research methods, and career counseling that prepared students for professional success. These activities reflect not only intellectual energy but also the eagerness of our students to engage with the wider world, broaden their vision, and prepare themselves for a globally competitive environment, while the photographs preserve moments of dialogue, attentiveness, and the spirit of inquiry that defines our culture of learning. Yet the story of our institute is not confined to academic seriousness alone; it is equally about community, joy, and lasting bonds, which is why the magazine also features glimpses of student functions, farewell parties, and celebrations that reveal a sense of friendship and belonging, reminding us that education is also about laughter, memories, and the strengthening of ties between teachers and students. In parallel, the institute has always given importance to holistic development, encouraging students to participate in extracurricular activities that foster leadership, discipline, teamwork, and social responsibility; hence, this pictorial section documents sports events where our students showcased talent and teamwork on cricket grounds, football fields, badminton courts, and athletics tracks, moments filled with enthusiasm, resilience, and sportsmanship, as well as plantation drives where students contributed to environmental sustainability and civic duty by planting saplings, watering them, and committing to a greener future. Together, these glimpses affirm that true education at our institute involves both intellectual advancement and character building, striking a balance between personal ambition and collective responsibility. Equally inspiring is the Alumni Photo Gallery, which is not merely a collection of pictures but a living testimony to the resilience, achievements, and enduring bonds of our graduates, who now shine in diverse fields including academia, business, banking, entrepreneurship, finance, public service, and social leadership. These alumni, captured in moments ranging from the smiles of the earliest graduating classes to the professional confidence of recent batches, represent the bridge between past, present, and future, reminding current students that they are part of a growing legacy where every batch leaves its distinct mark. For alumni, the gallery revives cherished memories and acknowledges their integral role in shaping the institute's reputation; for faculty and administrators, it is a celebration of their collective efforts in nurturing talent; and for present and future students, it is a source of motivation, urging them to dream bigger, achieve more, and carry forward the institute's name with pride. More than nostalgia, the gallery functions as an archive of institutional memory, preserving the evolution of our institute and demonstrating how far it has come in its journey of excellence, while the diversity of photographs across programs and professions reveals the breadth of its impact on society. By curating these images with care, the magazine not only strengthens the bond of alumni with their alma mater but also inspires students to see themselves as part of a larger family that thrives on knowledge, ethics, responsibility, and professional excellence. In the end, these photographs—whether of classrooms, seminars, sports fields, plantations, or alumni gatherings—are far more than images; they are milestones of growth, symbols of resilience, and reminders of the spirit of togetherness that defines the Institute of Commerce and Management. They stand as a record of how education here has always been holistic, vibrant, and deeply human, celebrating not just academic achievement but also friendships, community, and the values that prepare students to become thoughtful professionals and responsible citizens.

Institute of Commerce & Management, SALU Hosts Insightful Lecture on AI and Open Courseware.

Today, the Institute of Commerce and Management at Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur, successfully hosted two engaging lectures by distinguished academicians. The first online video lecture was delivered by Dr. Khalid Ahmed Mangrio, Research Fellow at the Crawford School of Public Policy, Australian National University, and Associate Professor of Economics at Sukkur IBA University. The session was attended by faculty members and students of the institute.

Dr. Khalid highlighted the importance of artificial intelligence (AI) for both students and faculty, emphasizing how AI tools can enhance learning experiences and research efficiency. He urged students to explore global universities' online libraries and video lecture platforms to access high-quality education beyond traditional classrooms. He stressed that instead of relying solely on institutions or instructors, students should take the initiative to achieve international education standards by leveraging available online resources. His message was clear: leave excuses behind and focus on hard work to shape a brighter future.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Khalid Ahmed Mangrio for taking the time to share his knowledge and insights with our students. His valuable contribution has inspired our students and faculty to embrace AI-driven learning and global academic resources.

This event is part of the institute's ongoing initiative to bring renowned scholars and industry experts to engage with students and enhance their academic journey.
